OCTOBER 10, 1913, NORWAY, MAINE.

VOLUME XLIV.

Abner Foster Jackson.

Abner Foster Jackson died at his home in Norway, Tuesday, Oct. 7, at 2:30 o'clock a. m., of inflammation of the kidneys, at the age of 83 years, 10 months and 23 days.

He was born in Paris, Nov. 14, 1827, the son of Daniel and Nancy (Foster) Jackson. When about 13 years of age he came to Norway and earned his way through school. He attended the Norway village schools.

When 22 years old he went as a miner to California with the late S. J. Millett for two years. He afterward went into the shoe manufacturing business with Benj. Greeley. He acted as sutler for the 23d Maine Regiment.

Forty-five years ago he bought "the little place" and has lived there ever since adding neighboring lands as time went on till he had one of the largest farms in Norway and was always a successful farmer.

May 21st, 1855, he married Mary W. P. Millett, daughter of Col. John and Abbie Parsons Millett, who died Feb. 10, 1860. Two children were born to them, Mary Eva Jackson, deceased, and John H. Jackson who lives in Astland, N. H., and is engaged in insurance business.

Feb. 19, 1865, he married his second wife, Harriet Augusta Millett, daughter of Major and Mrs. Henry W. Millett. There were five children by this marriage—Harry M. Jackson, Abner Foster Jackson, Jr., Rust Jackson, Solomon I. Jackson and Newhall Jackson, all of whom survive him but the latter, his wife died March 5, 1908.

Mr. Jackson was a strong Republican. His religious belief he was a Universalist. The funeral was from his late home on Thursday, Oct. 9, at 1 o'clock p. m.

Rev. J. H. Little of Bethel was the clergyman attending. The burial was in Norway Pine Grove cemetery.

A Norway Boy Promoted.

B. Franklin Farnoe, son of F. W. Farnoe of this town, has advanced another step in his profession as mechanical engineer. On the first of the month he was promoted by the management of the Carnegie Steel Co., at Homestead, Pa., to the position of superintendent of the big Slick Wheel department, one of the most important and largest branches of the mammoth industry.

He has full charge of the big mill, which is devoted entirely to turning out the wheels sold by the Carnegie Co., and has the last word as to what shall be done with the vast product. Mr. Farnoe graduated from the Norway high school and fitted himself for mechanical engineering at the University of Maine. He has been steadily employed by the Carnegie Co., since his graduation from college with the exception of the first year or so.

W. R. C. Notes.

At the Modern Woodman Hall on Thursday evening, Oct. 2nd Harry Rust W. R. C. No. 45 held their regular meeting. Owing to the severe rain during the day the attendance was not as large as had been anticipated, however at 8:30 p. m., when the call for supper was announced a nice party had assembled. A fine baked ham supper with assorted pickles and relishes was served by the executive committee, Mrs. Mattie F. Fuller, chairman. It was indeed a jolly party of veterans and wives who were present and all declared it too fine a supper to be missed by any of the members.

When 7:30 p. m. the meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Addie Lovejoy in the chair. At the proper time specified the members of Harry Rust Post No. 54 headed by the color bearer, was escorted into the hall by conductor Mrs. Evelyn Knox and assistant conductor Mrs. Eva L. Rugg, who exemplified their work in a very efficient manner.

At this part of the evening exercises, Harry Rust Post No. 54 was received as honorary members of the W. R. C. No. 45. At the close of introductory work by the conductor a most hearty address of welcome was extended to the Post by the president, Mrs. Addie Lovejoy.

For the good of the order, very interesting remarks were made by the commander, Winfield Cordwell, Geo. Whitman and Geo. Walker. Comrade Edwin Kneeland also responded.

It is hoped that the veterans will make an effort to be present at the meetings as often as a pleasant surprise may be in store for them. The evening came to a close all too soon, each one departing to their respective homes wishing for many more such pleasant gatherings.

Stories of Dr. Grefenell's work were given by Mrs. B. F. Jones of South Paris; also recitations and songs by the Sunday school.

A Birthday Party.

On Saturday afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nevers, a pleasant birthday party was held in honor of the fifth birthday of their daughter, Irene M. Nevers.

The living room was handsomely decorated with flags and autumn leaves and in one corner was an imitation of an old fashioned well and the oaken buckets were filled with apples. In another corner was a miniature lake, surrounded with autumn leaves and trees in which were a number of wax ducks quietly floating.

The refreshments were in charge of the little people. Four small tables set with children's dishes were placed about the room and from these refreshments of candy, cake, fancy crackers and cookies, peanut sandwiches, hot chocolate and fruit punch were served.

Margaret Bruce and Irene Nevers served the punch while Maria Cushman, Frances Rich, June Smith and Flora Stevenson served the cocoa. The birthday cake was made by Mrs. Nevers and was daintily decorated with frosting of pink roses and green leaves.

A very pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all present. Those present were: Frances Rich, Margaret McAllister, Elizabeth Bruce, Margaret Bruce, June Smith, Miriam Pike, Virginia Tubbs, Viola Smith, Marita Cushman, Ray Bickerton, Elton Benson, Katherine Richardson, and the guests of honor were Mrs. R. J. Bruce and Mildred Holmes.

Yesterday and Today.

This is a straight from the shoulder talk to the fathers of young girls. We hope mothers will read it also, but we want them to pass it on to their husbands without fail. The American father needs a jolt. And this is a jolt handed from one generation to another.

We are not given to deploring the passing of "the good old day." We believe that many of our modern customs have been cast aside and that today carries much to admire and respect over. But we have made a mistake in letting our girls grow up so fast.

There is neither meekness nor shadow in the eyes of Miss Sixteen today. Neither is she exactly what you would call "sweet." She is "smart" amusing, but she does not bring the "grammian smile" to the lips of old age nor fill the hearts of men, young and old, with the fine old desire to protect and screen her from all that might hurt or contaminate. Her bearing announces an independence that is too sensitive. There is nothing reluctant about her feet. Rather they press eagerly toward the dress, manners, customs and pleasures designed for those who have plucked ripe fruit from the tree of knowledge.

We men are proud of this new girl's spirit, of her achievements in the classroom, of her resourcefulness and adaptability when economic conditions force her into our factories, stores and offices. We smile at her good humoredly and say, "Go to it, girl," when she elbows her way into the crowded lunch room or trolley. But we miss the shadow in her eyes, the lily in her hand, and we do not like to think of her as a wife for our sons.

If we stop to analyze her position in the general scheme of life we think vaguely that she belongs to a class of her own, the class that must hold its own in the stern work-a-day world. Perhaps in preparing their daughters for the grinding, pitiless contest with those who toil, parents have taught girls at once too much and too little—too much of how to protect themselves from evil in how, too little of how to flee the evil in self. And so, flaunting her preparedness, this type throws off the mysterious veil of maidenhood, melting into womanhood.

We are sorry for this girl, sorry for her parents, and we say sadly to ourselves that we are glad that our daughters are not as this poor, world worn little creature. That is because we really do not know our own daughters. We have not time to follow our girls into what we fondly believe to be a sheltered path which you imagine your hard earned dollars provide for your daughters.

Law Court Decision.

Inhabitants of Rumford vs. The Boston Grocery Company et al. Rescript, Savage C. J.

1. A bond given by the keeper of a pool room, under R. S. chapter 81, sect. five, when he receives his license, remains in force only so long as he continues to keep the room under the license. If he rents the room to another party, reserving no interest in it, his liability on the bond ceases.

2. Whether the renting in this case was actual or colorable was a question of fact, and inasmuch as there was evidence which if believed, would show that the renting was actual, it should have been submitted to the jury, and a verdict directed for the plaintiff cannot be sustained.

Exceptions sustained. And in accordance with the stipulation, judgment for the defendants. October 6, 1913.

Q. D. Millett will sell stock, farming implements and household goods at auction on the D. H. Millett farm, three miles from Oxford village on the Poland road, Wednesday, Oct. 23, at 10 o'clock, a. m. If stormy, the next fair day; lunch at noon, A. D. Park, auctioneer.

For Chilly Fall Days

A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater is the very thing to keep the house cozy and comfortable in the chilly days before the furnace is started.

This year's new model Perfection has many important improvements. It gives more heat, is better made and works better than any other heater on the market.

Easy to rewick—wick and carrier in one; just lift out the old and drop in the new.

Wide, shallow font—holds more oil, and gives full, steady heat whether font is full or nearly empty.

Automatic-locking flame-spreader prevents smoking. Indicator shows at a glance how much fuel is left. No gallery to unscrew, or catch oil and dust.

Made with vitreous blue enamel or plain steel drums. Attractive latticed window frame.

Dealers everywhere—or write for descriptive circular

Fryeburg Fair.

The fair opened Tuesday under most favorable conditions. Never before has the West Oxford society had such a display of cattle, either in size or in quality. Every stall on the grounds was occupied while the open pens running beyond the stalls were filled and there were even then cattle left over that could not be accommodated.

In the exhibition hall there was an attractive display of farm produce. Pequawket grange, No. 146, and Fryeburg grange, No. 297, displayed the vegetables and fruit, and the pumpkins, squash, potatoes and other products.

A most appetizing display of preserves and other culinary products was shown on the second floor, while the exhibition of needlework was a superior one.

Irving Trumbull of Denmark got first with his two-year-old Hereford steers in the pulling contest. Irving had a nice looking brace of oxen. They weighed 1430 pounds, so the load they were called upon to drag was the game.

There were lots of things to see on the midway. Still the tiny carcasses of the famous calves born April 5, 1912, to a cow owned by Thomas and Leland Williams of Weld. There were six calves at a single birth, but none of them are now alive; none lived more than four days. Still the tiny carcasses of the calves have been mounted on the sides of the building and are now on exhibition as the only case of its kind known in the world.

Fortune tellers, two wild men, animals and other things thronged the midway, including dancing girls. One game was stopped. This was a supposedly spy monkey at which the visitor was invited to throw rubber balls in an effort to hit the simian. The same kind of an act was ousted from the Gorbam fair. Another man who attempted to put up a wheel was also told he could not do business.

This fair had a long string of entries for the races and the size of the purses called out some good sport.

The great attraction of the day was the 2:15-2:30 race.

WEST PARIS.

Mrs. Betsy Brook. Mrs. Betsy Brook died at her home early Saturday morning of pneumonia. She had been poorly for three or four weeks but was suddenly worse on Tuesday before.

She has been tenderly cared for during the past three years by her son Nathan Brook and wife at her home at Trap Corner.

Her husband was Elliott Brook, who was killed by the bursting of a saw in a wood sawing machine in Feb. 6, 1886, leaving her with five small children, Susannah Hammond, who died last July was only a baby nine months old. Of them only two are living, Henry and Nathan of Trap Corner.

She also leaves seven grandchildren, and two great grandchildren; Rose Taylor of West Buxton; Elva Sherburne and little daughter of Portland and John Brook and daughter Myrtle of West Paris were Mrs. Brook's oldest son Leonard's children; Chester Stearns of Harrison, son of her daughter Mary. Henry has two daughters, Ethel and Grace and Nathan has one daughter, Elva.

Mrs. Brook was a very smart capable woman, a great lover of music and a believer in the Methodist faith.

The funeral services were held at her late home Tuesday at 10 a. m. Rev. B. Pine officiating. Mrs. Quimby Perham and Mrs. Frank Davis sang three sweet duets. The remains were taken to Pine Grove Cemetery at Norway and laid beside those of her husband.

Terrible Suffering

Eczema All Over Baby's Body. When my baby was four months old his face broke out with eczema, and at sixteen months of age, his face, hands and arms were in a dreadful state. The eczema spread all over his body. We had to put a mask or cloth over his face and tie up his hands. Finally we gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla and in a few months he was entirely cured. Today he is a healthy boy. Mrs. Inez Lewis, Baring, Maine. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures blood diseases and builds up the system. Get it today in usual liquid form or chocolate tablets called Sarsatabs.

Maine Dept. of Agriculture.

The Maine Seed Improvement Association was organized in 1910 for the purpose of improving the yield and quality of the crops grown in Maine. The question was one of practicality. The greater the yield and the better the quality, the greater amount of product we have to feed or to sell and the higher price we shall receive.

Each year the membership and interest have increased until now it has realized there has been no such thing as a greater or more far reaching effect on Maine Agriculture than improved seeds. We will take oats as an example; the average yield in Maine is 31 bushels per acre, yet many men in the State are raising an average of 50 to 60 bushels per acre. If we can learn the methods employed by these men and secure seed which naturally gives a high yield, we can raise the average yield to more than 40 bushels per acre. One man has ten acres of oats at 31 bushels per acre and they are worth fifty cents per bushel he has a value of $155. If his yield is 41 bushels per acre, the value of his crop will be $205, or a clear gain of $50 as the cost of growing 31 bushels per acre is as much as growing 41 bushels per acre.

What is true of oats is true of all the farm crops we grow. The yield may be largely increased and the quality much improved by using the best methods of caring for our crop and by planting only seeds which have been carefully selected for yield and tested for germination.

Now is the best time to select our seed for next year's crop. It is natural that potatoes from a good strong hill which has a large number of smooth potatoes, the best of the seed, growing under a plant with vigorous top and strong stem should yield better than seed from a weak hill with rough

Highway Talk.

Considerable interest is being manifested by citizens of the leading Oxford county towns in the improvement of the road leading from South Paris to Locke's Mills by way of Trap Corner and Bryant Pond; also from Norway to Locke's Mills by way of North Norway and Greenwood City.

Both are routes over which there is a heavy auto travel in summer; besides local travel and all good citizens should be interested in their improvement by the towns and state.

These roads were designated State highways under the former road law and consequently have already received large sums of state money for several years, so that their condition when compared with former years has been greatly improved. No one objects to the improvements made on these routes, they were needed and many more are needed still.

Considering that these improvements must be paid for by all of the people, it seems a little unfair to leave some of the other routes almost entirely out of the question in the movement for better roads.

The road leading from Bryant Pond to South Paris by way of the old County road and High street in Paris is an example of a through road over which there is heavy travel, yet because it was not laid out as a State highway, it benefits but a few people. Our towns have seen fit to expend but small sums of money and today the road as a whole is in no better shape than it was ten years ago, in many places not so good.

This is the most direct route between Bryant Pond and South Paris. There is still a large amount of through travel in spite of the condition of the road. There would be double the travel were the road put in good condition. While the automobile travel is not heavy compared with the valley routes, yet it is unfair to make a comparison at the present time for the road is so rough that it is not safe to travel on it as much as possible, while if the road was in good condition there would be an altogether different showing. Apart from one steep hill in Greenwood, which could be built around it would be a desirable route for the motorist as it is the most direct and most sightly.

Another route connecting with this at the foot of Young hill in Greenwood leads through Richardson Hollow and Millettsville to Norway and is four miles longer than any other route between Bryant Pond and Norway. The through travel on this route is steadily increasing although but few improvements have been made on the road.

Is it any wonder that the large number of people along these lesser main thoroughfares to Norway and South Paris feel that it is not quite justice to tax them for the improvements on the other routes, while at the same time the highways along which they live are allowed to go from bad to worse? The natural travel is taken away and instead of living on what was once acknowledged as a main road to South Paris and Norway, they find it is now an abandoned route in the eyes of many people and this is their reward for voting for State road money year after year without a kick.

We believe in good roads, we believe that the largest sums of money should be expended on the roads where the most people will be benefited, but these routes which have been mentioned are important thoroughfares and deserve better treatment. They should be steadily improved year by year.

Now that our State road law has been changed it seems as if it would be only fair for the State highway commission to designate the road from Bryant Pond to South Paris, by way of High street, also the road to Norway by way of Richardson Hollow as State aid highways and for the towns to raise at least a small sum of money each year, so that these routes can gradually be rebuilt and improved as the other routes have been.

HAVE YOU CATARRH? Is nasal breathing impaired? Does your throat get husky or clogged?

Modern science proves that these symptoms result from run down health. Snuffs and vapors are irritating and useless. You should build up your general health with the oil-food in Scott's Emulsion—its nourishing powers will enrich and enliven the blood, aid nutrition and assimilation and assist nature to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes which are affected. Scott's Emulsion will raise your standard of health to correct catarrh. Shun alcoholic mixtures and insist on SCOTT'S.

Catarrah Sufferers

Get Immediate and Effective Relief by Using Hyomei.

Hyomei is nature's true remedy for catarrah. There is no stomach dosing—You breathe it. When using this treatment, you breathe healing balsams and effectively reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, the catarrah germ are destroyed—quick and sure relief results. Hyomei often restores health to chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease when the breath is becoming offensive, and constant sniffling, discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat, or that choked up feeling begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrah trouble, surely use Hyomei. Ask Noyes Drug Store for the complete outfit, $1.00. He will refund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

Wait Paint.

There are painters and waiters. Which am I going to do? Paint or wait? Which is better?

How much am I worth with my property waiting? How much if I paint? Will my house be worth more or less if I paint?

Say it costs $2 a gallon Devco—$4 wouldn't paint any other—and $3 and $4 more for putting it on. That's $50 or $60 a 10-gallon job.

The money is gone. Is it in the house? Is it all in the house?

Suppose I were selling; what should I get for that house fresh-painted and what should I get for it needing paint being sold? I wonder why men paint before selling?

DEVCOE.
F. P. Stone, Norway; F. N. Wright, South Paris; Emery & Shaw Co., West Paris sell it.

YOU CAN'T EAT APPETITE POOR

Multitudes of people lose their appetite. Simply don't care for anything to eat. The thing that has no interest to them. They loathe their breakfast. They may nibble a little of this and a little of that, but they do not care for it.

Lunch has lost all of its charms, although they try to eat something. Dinner about the same.

There is something positively wrong, of course, but no disease that can be named. Just out of sorts. That is all.

It is in this kind of a condition that Peruna acts very beneficially.

After using Peruna, interest in food is revived. Beginning with the first meal of this and a little of that, but they do not care for it.

Thousands of people can testify to this. Liberated from a slavery that is almost unbearable. The slavery of having no interest in life. All used up. Yet one does not know exactly why. Take Peruna before each meal. Skies will get blue again. Fields will look green once more and life will be pleasant. You will feel that you are good for something and the world is a good place to live in. Peruna will do it. Not as an artificial stimulant. Simply a tonic that stimulates appetite in a natural way.

Those who object to liquid medicines can now obtain Peruna Tablets.

SHOOTING AT RUMFORD.

In a quarrel over a card game Tulzi Reias was killed and Mario Balba dangerously wounded, Oct. 5. Balba was taken to the hospital with a bullet hole at the back of his month and is under police surveillance on the charge of shooting Reias.

According to the police, these two and two others of a card party at Reias' home engaged in a quarrel during which Reias and Balba rolled down a flight of stairs together wrestling for control of a revolver which Balba had. Although fatally wounded by a bullet from the weapon, Reias managed in his last struggle to turn it upon his antagonist, inflicting a throat wound. Balba is expected to recover.

Reias was 35 years old and leaves a widow. He has been employed as a foreman of a ditching gang. The house where the shooting occurred was the scene of a tragedy two years ago when Joseph Bill, now a life inmate of the State Prison, shot and killed his wife there.

The Neighborhood Railroad

The railroad system of New England is aptly called "the neighborhood railroad".

BECAUSE:—

65,000 of your neighbors own it's stock.

80,000 of your neighbors are employed.

This means that 38,000,000 dollars are distributed by this one industry to your neighbors.

Your neighbors spend this enormous sum in New England.

Think what this means for YOUR business!

Fresh Tobacco Never Bites; Dry, Cut-up Tobacco Does

Only when the natural moisture dries out of tobacco can a "bite" get into it. In the Sickle plug, all the moisture, flavor and fragrance are pressed in and kept in by the natural leaf wrapper. Every pipeful you whittle off the plug is fresh—so you always get a slow-burning, cool, sweet, satisfying smoke.

If you want your tobacco already cut up for you, in packages, you have to be content with dry tobacco, that burns fast and hot, and bites your tongue.

That's why experienced smokers cut up their own tobacco, from the Sickle plug. They get more tobacco, because they don't pay for a package—and better tobacco, because it's always fresh.

Joseph Andrew's Letters.

On April 3 I resumed my journey from San Bernardino, going by way of Barstow, 81 miles distant, and then on the main line of the Santa Fe, through the Mojave desert, across the Sierra Nevada mountains at the famous Tehachas pass, and down into the great San Joaquin valley at Bakersfield.

This city, the county seat of Kern County, is growing fast. It has a population of 20,000 and is the center of a great oil field territory. The McKitterick, Oil City, Kern River and other nearby and famous oil fields furnishing an almost unlimited amount of the best kind of fuel coal oil, furnishing cheap fuel for the coast steamers, railroad lines, and all kinds of steam manufacturing plants. Here at Bakersfield, eight miles distant I visited for four days friends whose acquaintance I made while spending two winters there with my daughter several years ago. As I wrote of this section three years ago I will write but little about it now.

Farm lands have nearly doubled in value since I was there before, and the farmers are enjoying a high degree of prosperity, many of them own automobiles. Their main crop has been alfalfa, and many are engaged in dairying. Some of them are putting in their own pumping plants, the power used being either oil or gasoline engines. Here as in all the great agricultural valleys of California, it is the water that makes the more so, for without irrigation all this vast stretch of country would be but a barren sandy waste.

This is truly a wonderful valley with the Sacramento which comes in from the north it turns a valley about 500 miles long, and from 20 to 30 miles wide, shut in on one side by the Coast range and on the other by the great Sierra Nevada range of mountains. On a bright clear morning one can follow the latter range down the valley with his eye for more than 100 miles to the Mt. Whitney group where the great giants tower to a height of from 12 to over 14,000 feet, and so clear is the air that a stranger unaccustomed to the country would think that they were but a short day's journey away. In this connection I wish to quote from an article in the Congressionalist, "The Call of the Sierras," "Glories of the land of John Muir." By Ralph B. Larkin.

"One is helped to imagine the noble uplift of this region when it is stated that in a section of the range beginning near Mt. Langley and extending northward for a distance of 80 miles with an average width of 14 miles, there are 365 summits over 12,000 feet high. Of these 118 are over 13,000 feet and 9 are over 14,000 feet, the highest being Mt. Whitney. Of this number 242 are without names known to the official map. "This area also includes upwards of 700 lakes, most of them of great dimensions of from 10,000 to 12,000 feet. If the count of peaks and lakes be extended northward to include the region in which lies Yosemite the number is greatly increased.

"One of the distinctive features of this country mountain region is the Sierra meadows and flower gardens. At intervals one emerges into level open spaces where the soil is damp and where in consequence there is an exquisite carpet of green. John Muir has estimated the number at upwards of 2,500. In many of these meadows there is a luxuriant growth of flowers of indescribable brilliance. One follows the changing genera and species as one climbs, noting with perpetual interest how the plants pass to another with increasing altitude. He follows the brilliant hues almost to the highest summit. At 12,000 feet in most unlikely places amongst the rock teeth gorgeous hues are still seen climbing upward.

"Even though one cannot call a tithe of the Sierra flowers by name, yet he finds enough of his old friends to make him feel at home—azalea, golden-rod, cyclamen, daisy, columbine and tiger lily. He feels at home in the sun-drenched strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries, currants and elderberry.

"This is John Muir's country. It is calculated to lay bare the poverty of words. It must be seen. Often the resultant mood will be that of wordless silence. Do you see it for yourself. Let the love of it fasten upon you and then, if you can, you will come again and again."

Continuing my journey from Rosedale my next stop was at Deale, 134 miles distant where an old Dakota friend, the Rev. B. I. Farr, met me at the station with his Ford auto and took me to his home at Turlock, five miles distant, and where I enjoyed a fine two days' visit with him and his family. Mr. Farr who is an earnest and forcible preacher of the Methodist church, who had to give up preaching on account of lung weakness. He came to Turlock some two or three years ago and as secretary and manager of the Turlock Real Estate Co. he has prospered in a wonderful way financially. His health is much improved and he preaches a part of the time.

Turlock has a population of about 1,500 and is growing rapidly. The soil is a sandy loam and irrigation raises wonderful crops of peaches and other fruits, and melons by the train load.

From Turlock I next went to Stockton a distance of 42 miles, a city of over 25,000 population where I took an electric car to Lodi ten miles distant, where I enjoyed another two days visit with another old Dakota friend, Ethan Fletcher. Lodi has a population of 3,000. Mr. Fletcher owns a six-acre fruit farm one mile out. About one-half of this is in grapes, the balance in asparagus, small fruits and alfalfa.

I presume Mr. Fletcher's experience is similar to many others. He paid $6,000 for his ranch but he is owing $2,000. He likes the country very much, but he said that while he could make a good living, he could see no possible chance to pay off his debt, and said he should sell out at his first opportunity and go where he could get cheaper land.

The same evening I took a street car to Berkeley (which is divided from Oakland only by a street) but a few miles distant where I received a cordial welcome from my old time South Dakota neighbor, Edwin P. Moore, whom I visited, and where I made my headquarters during the seven days that I tarried there. I made frequent calls upon the Henry Stearns family. Spent two days at San Jose 50 miles distant, in the beautiful Santa Clara valley with another old Dakota friend. I made several trips from Oakland across the bay to San Francisco. That city is growing fast and is making wonderful preparations for the great World's Fair, Panama Exposition in 1915.

I visited Heald's Business College, established about 1893 by E. P. Heald of Center Lovell and of which he has been president ever since. Mr. Heald has shown wonderful ability in his chosen profession. He has built up and has under his management at least 11 Heald's Business Colleges in as many coast cities including Oakland, Los Angeles and Long Beach.

I spent one evening at Heald's magnificent mansion in Oakland. Mrs. Heald showed me over the house, and told me that all the inside finishing lumber came from the Hawaiian Islands. I was told by others that the furnishing of the house cost $80,000. Mr. Heald, who has not visited Lovell for many years, made many inquiries about his old Center Lovell schoolmates, and said he would like very much to visit the old home land once more.

One day I dined at the pleasant home of Mrs. Victory Barker Evans, one of my school companions. Mrs. Evans, whose husband is a furniture dealer, is now a business woman. She owns most of a city block, and on the lots adjoining her residence she has built two nice cottages which she rents. The other half of the block is fitted up into a first-class chicken ranch from which all the year round she furnishes fresh high priced eggs to the tourist and student population of San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley. A year or two ago her sister, Mary Clark, whose home is in Kansas, with her husband rented one of the cottages and spent the winter there.

My week's stay in Berkeley with my old Dakota friends was indeed a pleasant one. Their home was beside the towering walls of Gilman Hall, which is only one of at least a dozen great university buildings which united makes one of America's greatest educational institutions, the University of California at Berkeley.

With Mrs. Moore as my guide I visited most of the buildings and interesting sights, witnessed the great annual field day meet, where the athletic giants of Stanford and Berkeley each year meet in friendly conflict and work like heroes to win the highly prized honors of the day. To the most interesting sight was the marching of more than a thousand young men cadets of the Berkeley school who in neat uniforms and with rifles on their shoulders, marched beneath the dear old flag to the music of fife and drum across the college campus.

Alone I climbed the Berkeley hills back of the University buildings, and field glass in hand, viewed with of miscalculation wonder and admiration the grand view presented to my vision. Berkeley with its 45,000 and Oakland with its 180,000 population lay almost at my feet, while San Francisco with its 465,000 population just across the bay seemed but a little distance away, and the great bay with its golden gates and beyond the bright waters of the great Pacific gleaming in the bright sunlight made a picture which no tongue can describe and no artist's brush can paint.

Should a kind Providence so will, I hope to spend at least a month sometime during the year 1915 in viewing the matchless wonders of all lands that will be on exhibition here at the World's greatest Exposition, given in honor of the Panama Canal, the world's greatest engineering achievement built by a American skill and owned by the American nation.

Money Makes Money, and the Money That Money Makes, Makes More Money

This saying of Benjamin Franklin is particularly applicable today and in no way can its truth be more easily and convincingly shown than by opening a bank account with this Bank. A bank account is an investment in the strictest sense of the word. You are granted the incomparable convenience of paying for things by simply writing your name on a slip of paper. You do not have to keep currency on your person or premises. You can always immediately convert any part of your deposit into cash in hand without any loss, which is not true of any other entire class of investments. Opening an account with this strong National Bank may save you loss and bitter regrets.

If you are unable to call in person you can bank by mail just as conveniently.
